THE CONCEPT

The complex aims to promote the deconcentration of the tourist offer and respond to demands that is increasingly concerned with the environment and with alternatives to so-called mass tourism.

Rural areas, in this case the villages in the interior of Portugal, and in particular the Alentejo villages, in this era of "fashionable Alentejo" provide a welcoming environment for creating quality tourist products in new destinations.

Outside the conventional offer that has been carried out exclusively in bathing areas and in the summer season The company recovered the existing houses in this village and equipped them in accordance with the comfort and quality requirements for tourist accommodation, always maintaining the concern of not altering its original characteristics and not interfering with the village's own environment.

Tourists in the houses are not "guests", but rather visitors/part of the family of the Village where they will find welcome within the community and establish natural connections with it.

The Enterprise is aware that Rural Tourism brings together very unique characteristics, having little in common with more conventional tourism offers. Rural Tourism, and particularly Village Tourism, has as its fundamental objective, to offer users the opportunity to relive the practices, values and cultural and gastronomic traditions of rural societies, benefiting from their accommodation and personalized welcome.

The accommodation units, in the 3 typologies: T1, T2 and T3, are welcoming and functional houses with all the modern interior but with the unique characteristics of village life . Its interior consists of double or single rooms, a fully equipped kitchenette and a common room that will serve as a living and dining room with TV, and internet access, with air conditioning and double glazing, which allows for the best thermal insulation and acoustic, and the maintenance of the large fireplace and chimney typical of the region.
